The reference group's report on the quality of the course:

The weekly exercises are good, nice to submit handwritten tasks, and that the exercises are from the book.

The class did not ask many questions, but it is the same in other subjects.

Great with exercises for students to do in class.

Nice to have lectures on the internet, and many students chose to use them.

The students are generally very pleased with the course!

Measures proposed by the reference group:

The reference group could not think of any measures to improve the course, but would like to underline that paper based exercises are preferred to the electronic system used in Calculus 2.
